Week 5 Results

Week 5 is in the books, and just like that—we've hit the halfway mark of the Summer 2025 season. Big thanks to everyone who's been showing up, throwing strong, and making Wednesday nights something to look forward to. Whether you're climbing the standings or just finding your rhythm, we hope you're having as much fun playing as we are watching it all unfold.

Now that we've crossed the midpoint, it's a great time to take a wider look at the season so far. Below, you'll find the usual division standings, this week's standout performances, and a few players who've been putting in serious work over the first five weeks. Let's check out who's heating up—and who's still lurking with a second-half comeback on deck.

180 and R9

With our shift to the All-star points system this season, we've retired the old Highlight Heroes format—but that doesn't mean we've stopped tracking the big moments.

As of Week 5, we're proud to recognize every player who's nailed a 180 or an R9 so far this season. These don't just earn you bragging rights—they mark you as someone who can turn a match around with a single visit.

We'll be spotlighting these achievements again at the end of the season, so keep firing—you could be on the list next.

Players that shot a 180 in the first five weeks:

Alonzo Arreola

RJ Combs

Mark Devitto

Brian Lynch

Dan Morgan

Gabriel Pactang

Players that shot an R9 in the first five weeks:

Joe Bailey

Cain Dart

Darin Ernst

Guy Ramsey

Wayne Watts

A Division's looking familiar—first place has an 18-point lead and a reserved seat at the top.
